LETTER OF TRANSMITTAL.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
UNITED STATES GEOLOGICAL SURVEY,
Washington, D. C., March 9, 1904.

SIR: I have the honor to transmit herewith, for publication as a bulletin, a gazetteer of Delaware.

Very respectfully,

HENRY GANNETT,
Geographer.

Hon. CHARLES D. WALCOTT,
Director United States Geological Survey.

A GAZETTEER OF DELAWARE.

By HENRY GANNETT.

GENERAL DESCRIPTION OF THE STATE.

Delaware is one of the Middle States, and borders upon Delaware Bay and the Atlantic Ocean between latitudes $38^{\circ} 30'$ and $39^{\circ} 45'$, and between longitudes $75^{\circ} 00'$ and $75^{\circ} 50'$. The east boundary of the State is Delaware Bay and the Atlantic Ocean. The south boundary is a line beginning at Cape Henlopen—as the name was originally applied—in latitude $38^{\circ} 27'$, and running due west 34 miles 309 perches. The west boundary is a straight line, commencing at the westernmost point on the southern boundary and running northward 81 miles 78 chains and 30 links until it touches and makes a tangent to the western periphery of a circle with a radius of 12 statute miles from the center of the town of Newcastle. The north boundary is the periphery of this circle as far as Delaware River.

Delaware was first settled by the Dutch in 1629. In 1638 the Swedes made a settlement and held the colony until 1655, when it was surrendered to the Dutch. In 1664 this region, with the other Dutch possessions, was acquired by the Duke of York. In 1682 this territory passed from the Duke of York to William Penn by deed, and was held by him until 1701, when he granted it a charter enabling its people to set up a separate government. Delaware is one of the thirteen original States, and was the first to adopt the Constitution, taking this step December 7, 1787.

The population of the State in 1900 was 184,735. The following table gives the population at each census since 1790:

Population of Delaware at each census since 1790.

1790.....	59,096
1800.....	64,273
1810.....	72,674
1820.....	72,749
1830.....	76,748
1840.....	78,085
1850.....	91,532
1860.....	112,216
1870.....	125,015
1880.....	146,608
1890.....	168,493
1900.....	184,735

The density of population in 1900 was 94.3 inhabitants to a square mile. The chief city is Wilmington, with a population of 76,508 in 1900; the capital is Dover, with a population of 3,329 in 1900. The urban population in 1900 amounted to about 54 per cent. As to sexes, the population is divided in the proportion of 51 males to 49 females. The State contains 30,697 negroes, five-sixths of the population being white, while one-sixth is colored. The proportion of foreign born is small, only 7.5 per cent of the inhabitants being foreign born, to 92.5 per cent native born.

Of the total population 10 years of age and over, 12 per cent were unable to read and write. This illiteracy was, however, found mainly among negroes. The illiterate element of the whites consisted of only 7 per cent of the whole number, while that of the negroes constituted 38 per cent. Of the total population over 15 years of age, 36 per cent were single, 55 per cent married, 8 per cent widowed, and 0.2 per cent divorced.

Of the entire number of inhabitants over 10 years of age, almost exactly one-half were engaged in gainful occupations. Of the males not less than 81 per cent were wage-earners, and of the females 18 per cent. The wage-earners were distributed in the following proportions among the five grand divisions of occupations:

Proportions of wage-earners in Delaware in 1900.

	Per cent.
Agriculture	26
Professions	4
Domestic and personal service.....	23
Trade and transportation	16
Manufacturing	31

In 1900 there were 9,687 farms in the State, of which more than nine-tenths were operated by white farmers. Of the entire number of farms, just one-half were operated by their owners and the other half by tenants. The area of land in farms was 1,066,228 acres, of which 754,010 acres were improved. The average size of the farms was 110 acres, which is considerably less than the average of the country. The improved area amounted to 71 per cent of the total farm area and 60 per cent of the total area of the State. The value of all the farm property was $40,697,654, of which $34,436,040 consisted of land and buildings, $2,150,560 of farm implements and machinery, and $4,111,054 of live stock. The farm products were valued at $9,290,777. The average value per farm of all farm property was $4,201, and the value of products per farm was $959. The following table gives the number of animals upon farms:

Animals on farms in Delaware in 1900.

Meat cattle	54,180
Horses	29,722
Mules	4,745
Sheep	11,765
Swine	46,732

The following table gives the amounts of farm products in 1900:

Farm products of Delaware in 1900.

Corn	bushels..	4,736,580
Wheat	do....	1,870,570
Oats	do....	131,960

Potatoes	bushels..	414,610
Sweet potatoes.....	do....	222,165
Dairy products.....		$1,092,807

The total number of manufacturing establishments in the State in 1900 was 1,417, with a total capital of $41,203,239 and 22,303 employees. The wages paid annually amounted to $9,259,661, the value of materials to $26,652,601, and the value of products to $45,387,630.

PUBLICATIONS OF UNITED STATES GEOLOGICAL SURVEY.

[Bulletin No. 230.]

The publications of the United States Geological Survey consist of (1) Annual Reports, (2) Monographs, (3) Professional Papers, (4) Bulletins, (5) Mineral Resources, (6) Water-Supply and Irrigation Papers, (7) Topographic Atlas of United States—folios and separate sheets thereof, (8) Geologic Atlas of United States—folios thereof. The classes numbered 2, 7, and 8 are sold at cost of publication; the others are distributed free. A circular giving complete lists may be had on application.

The Professional Papers, Bulletins, and Water-Supply Papers treat of a variety of subjects, and the total number issued is large. They have therefore been classified into the following series: A, Economic geology; B, Descriptive geology; C, Systematic geology and paleontology; D, Petrography and mineralogy; E, Chemistry and physics; F, Geography; G, Miscellaneous; H, Forestry; I, Irrigation; J, Water storage; K, Pumping water; L, Quality of water; M, General hydrographic investigations; N, Water power; O, Underground waters; P, Hydrographic progress reports. This bulletin is the thirty-eighth in Series F, the complete list of which follows (all are bulletins thus far):

SERIES F, GEOGRAPHY.
