

Figure 25. A bottom tripod tangled with lobster gear recovered from the western Massachusetts Bay Site A. This recovery followed the intense December 1992 storm during which a large amount of lobster gear was lost; it is hypothesized that some of this drifting gear became entangled on the tripod. Entanglements with fishing gear were very rare.