Figure 1. The Lower Cape Cod aquifer system in Cape Cod, Massachusetts, is composed of four flow lenses, as shown by the water-table contours. Ground water flows from the centers of the water-table mounds toward the coast.