

(200)
R290
no. 86-568

X

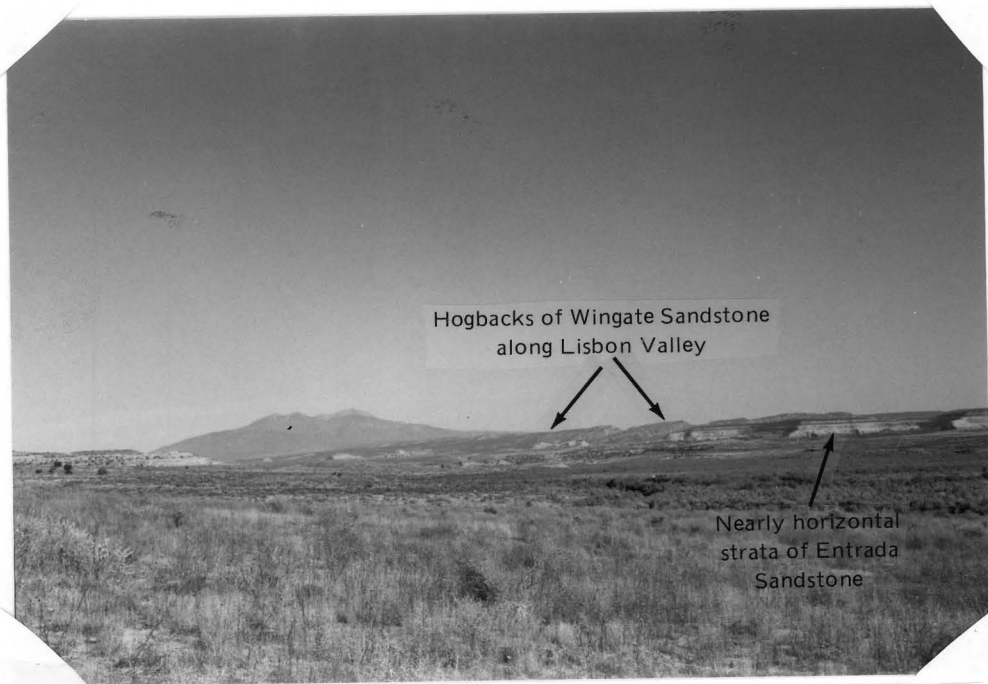

Figure 5.—View of Dry Valley, with the La Sal Mountains in the background. The hogbacks along the horizon, which are the eroded west limb of the Lisbon anticline, are a recharge area. The mountains rise from a base at an approximate altitude of 7,000 feet to Mount Peale at 12,721 feet. The vegetation consists of grassland with greasewood in the valley bottom.

