

Fig. 40- Moss-covered and forested boulder debris of Thunderhead Sandstone is incised by modern streams. The stream removes the fine material in the matrix and leaves a lag deposit of boulders referred to as coarse alluvium. (Steep Branch, along Rt. 441, elev= 2300 ft, Gatlinburg quadrangle).