

Fig. 57- The surface of an upper level fan of boulder debris shows a few scattered cobbles and boulders of metasandstone that overlie a beveled surface of Pigeon Siltstone. The upper level fan is approximately 200 ft (m) above Cosby Creek and the lower boulder debris fan. Daypack and rock hammer in center for scale (elev = 1840 ft, Hartford quadrangle).