

EXPLANATION

- Dashed line
- Dashed where approximately located
- D
- Remnant of pre-Wisconsin drift(?)
- > Glacial striae, from Fuller, 1903a
- 1500'
- > Glacial spillway
- Arrow indicates assumed direction of stream flow; 1500', altitude in feet at head of spillway. Spillway in Gaines quadrangle from Fuller, 1903a; in Elkland quadrangle from Fuller, 1903b
- ▲ 29
- ▲ Paleosol localities
- Numbers refer to table 1
- x 21
- Other localities referred to in text
- ▲ 43
- ▲ 498
- Well, showing depth to bedrock, in feet
- Location approximate. 498, locality number from Lohman, 1938, pl. 2; 1939, pl. 2

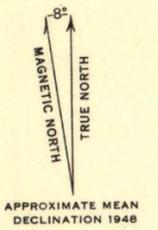

A

Total area in Genesee quadrangle and vicinity from which erratics of igneous and metamorphic rock were collected (table 2 and graph A, fig. 12). Area sampled about 250 square miles

D

Selected locality within total area from which erratics of igneous and metamorphic rock were collected (graphs B through I, fig. 12)

CHERRY SPRINGS
Name of quadrangle

MAP OF POTTER COUNTY AND VICINITY, PENNSYLVANIA

