FOREWORD

"The National Gazetteer of the United States of America" is a cooperative effort between the U.S. Geological Survey (USGS) and the U.S. Board on Geographic Names (BGN). Since the creation of the BGN in 1890, the two organizations have worked together in establishing uniform usage of geographic names on Federal maps, charts, and other publications. This cooperation, which has been a blending of technical talent and field-gathered information, has been beneficial to the missions and programs of both organizations. The BGN is responsible for establishing official names for use throughout the Federal Government. The USGS is responsible for the preparation and maintenance of the series of base maps of the Nation's lands and waters and for the publication of reports detailing the results of investigations of the Nation's mineral, energy, land, and water resources. In addition to being a principal user of the official names determined by the BGN, the USGS, because of extensive field operations, has collected much of the information necessary for making the decisions establishing those names.

The basis for the cooperation between the USGS and the BGN is the recognition that the use of standard geographic names is necessary for communication of geographic information. Geographic names are an essential part of our language and form a primary reference system that affects people every day. Geographic names have strong psychological significance because the names are associated with the processes of thought that give people the ability to understand the world around them. The names are used to identify cultural and administrative areas, to define political boundaries, and to determine property, mineral, and water rights.

"The National Gazetteer of the United States of America" is the result of a long-term effort to provide a standard reference to the Nation's named places, features, and areas. As early as 1892, with the support of the newly organized BGN and as part of the National Mapping Program, the USGS began cataloging geographic names and producing a series of State gazetteers to assist in finding geographic features on atlas sheets produced by the USGS. Compilation was initially done by Henry Gannett, Chief Geographer, under the direction of John Wesley Powell, second Director of the USGS. Gannett was chairman of the BGN from 1894 until his death in 1914. Gazetteers for 12 States, Puerto Rico, the Territory of Alaska, and the Indian Territory (Oklahoma) were published between 1894 and 1906 and, for the United States as a whole, between 1902 and 1905. However, large-scale topographic mapping, from which the name information for the gazetteers was derived, was a slow process, and inadequate map coverage led to the suspension of the program.

The USGS again began the systematic collection of geographic name information in 1976 when large-scale topographic maps were published for more than 70 percent of the country. This information is a major part of the computerized National Geographic Names Data Base. This volume of the USGS Professional Paper series "The National Gazetteer of the United States of America" is derived from that data base and provides a select list of the most significant features and places within the United States and its territories. This volume, issued during the centennial anniversary of the BGN, would not have been possible without the work of several hundred men and women of the USGS and the BGN who have served their nation during the past century with distinction.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

The geographic names information in the Concise volume of the National Gazetteer was compiled by the geographic names staff at the U.S. Geological Survey in Reston, Va. The National Gazetteer program is directed by Roger L. Payne. Louis A. Yost IV provided necessary coordination for the final production of this volume of the gazetteer. Recognition is also given to Judy J. Stella, who developed the specific procedures and software necessary to format the final copy, and to Henry Sauber, who provided the historical background research. Additional research and compilation was provided by Ernest F. Berringer, Robin Worcester, Jon C. Campbell, Laura Downey, Linda S. Davis, Eve Edwards, and Peter H. Murtaugh.

THE NATIONAL GAZETTEER OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA UNITED STATES CONCISE 1990

INTRODUCTION

By Donald J. Orth

This gazetteer is a select list of about 42,000 geographic names in alphabetical order for major places, features, and areas within the United States and its territories. The names and their applications are for official use on Federal Government maps and other publications. Official changes and corrections will be published in the yearly domestic names decision list of the U.S. Board on Geographic Names (BGN) and will be reflected in the Geographic Names Information System. This gazetteer is part of a series of State, territory, and other special listings of geographic names published as U.S. Geological Survey Professional Paper 1200 and collectively titled "The National Gazetteer of the United States of America." The series of gazetteers will eventually list over three million names and other information, including variant and obsolete names, and is being prepared and published in cooperation with the BGN.

The purpose of the National Gazetteer program is to provide a reference and national standard for the written forms of American geographic names and their applications. Separate volumes of the National Gazetteer can be identified by the name of the geographic area covered or the category of named features listed and the year of publication. Particular volumes may be revised periodically with a new year date. The volumes may be found in libraries or can be ordered directly from the Chief, Branch of Geographic Names, U.S. Geological Survey, 523 National Center, Reston, VA 22092.<sup>1</sup>

U.S. BOARD ON GEOGRAPHIC NAMES

In 1990 the U.S. Board on Geographic Names (BGN) celebrates 100 years of service to the U.S. Government and, by extension, to State governments and the American people. The BGN was established as a central authority to deal with name conflicts and to standardize the use of geographic names on maps, charts, and other publications produced by Federal agencies.

It would be ideal if in everyday language all people were to use but one name for a given geographic entity and only one entity would be known by that name. In practice, the extent to which complete distinctiveness in geographic names is approachable, or something less can be tolerated, varies with time according to sociopolitical conditions, the mobility of people and their naming habits, and language flexibility. Standardization of the written form of a name and its application has become increasingly important during the last 100 years because of reference needs associated with the development of natural sciences; sophisticated transportation and communication systems; special land, mineral, and water rights; and highly accurate large-scale maps and charts. Confusion, uncertainty, and misunderstanding may occur when the name for an entity is spelled in different ways, when different names are used for the same place, when the same name is used for different places, or when a name is applied to a feature in an unexpected or different way.

The systematic standardization of geographic names in the United States began late in the 19th century. After the Civil War there was a surge of mapping and scientific reports associated with the exploration, mining, and settlement of the western territories. The accuracy of the large number of names and their spellings and applications became a serious problem to mapmakers and scientists who required uniform, nonconflicting geographic nomenclature. As a result, President Benjamin Harrison signed an Executive Order on September 4, 1890, establishing the U.S. Board on Geographic Names. The BGN was given authority to resolve all questions concerning geographic names. Decisions of the BGN were accepted as binding by all departments and agencies of the Federal Government.

<sup>1</sup> Users are urged to report errors, omissions, and any other information that may improve the usefulness of this publication.

In 1906 President Theodore Roosevelt extended the responsibilities of the BGN to include the authority to standardize all new and changed geographic names for Federal use. The U.S. Congress reorganized the BGN by Public Law 80-242 in 1947. Sharing its responsibilities with the Secretary of the Interior, the BGN establishes and maintains uniform geographic name usage throughout the Federal Government. The BGN operates without a budget and is made up of members and deputies from Federal departments and independent agencies concerned with the use of geographic names. All members of the BGN and their deputies are employees of the Federal Government and serve without further compensation. Members and deputies are appointed by the heads of their respective departments or agencies for a 2-year term. The Chairman is appointed by the Secretary of the Interior on nomination by the BGN. The officers of the BGN are Chairman, Vice Chairman, and two executive secretaries. The Chairman appoints as Executive Secretary to the BGN either the Executive Secretary for Domestic Names or the Executive Secretary for Foreign Names.

Special working committees are established by the BGN when necessary, and the Secretary of the Interior, upon recommendation of the BGN, may establish advisory committees of recognized experts to assist with special problems. Current working committees include the Domestic Names Committee, Foreign Names Committee, Executive Committee, and Publications Committee, as well as advisory committees on Antarctic and undersea feature names.

Since 1947, domestic names standardization has been carried out by the BGN's Domestic Names Committee, which meets monthly. Consisting of members and deputies representing the Departments of Interior, Commerce, and Agriculture and the Government Printing Office, Postal Service, and Library of Congress, the Committee is responsible for standardizing the names of places, features, and areas within the 50 States and in areas under the sovereignty of the United States. The Executive Secretary and staff support for the domestic names activities of the BGN are provided by the USGS, an agency in the Department of the Interior.

With respect to names used by Americans for places, features, and areas in the United States and its territories, the policy of the BGN is to recognize present-day local usage or preferences where possible. To implement this policy, close cooperation is maintained with State geographic boards, State and local governments, and the general public to determine the choice, spelling, written form, and application of each name for official use. If there is confusing duplication of local names or if a local name may be derogatory to a particular person, race, or religion, the BGN may disapprove such names and seek alternate local names for the features. For cases in which local usage is conflicting or a name is not used by many people, well-established documented names and names that have historical significance are given added consideration. The BGN also has a policy of not approving new domestic geographic names that honor or may be construed to honor living persons.

Any person or organization, public or private, may make inquiries or request the BGN to render formal decisions on proposed new names, proposed name changes, or names that are in conflict. Communications concerning domestic geographic names should be addressed to the Executive Secretary, Domestic Geographic Names, U.S. Board on Geographic Names, 523 National Center, Reston, VA 22092.

Foreign names standardization is carried out in the name of the BGN by its Foreign Names Committee. The Committee's members and deputies represent those Federal departments and independent agencies concerned with the use of foreign geographic names. The Executive Secretary and staff support for the foreign names activities of the BGN, and the maintenance of records relating to Antarctic and undersea feature names, are provided by the Defense Mapping Agency, an agency in the Department of Defense. Communications concerning foreign geographic names should be addressed to the Executive Secretary, Foreign Geographic Names, U.S. Board on Geographic Names, Defense Mapping Agency, 8613 Lee Highway, Fairfax, VA 22031-2137.

U.S. GEOLOGICAL SURVEY

The U.S. Geological Survey (USGS), established in 1879 as a Bureau of the Department of the Interior, is a major earth science and fact-finding agency of the Federal Government. The broad and diversified USGS research programs aid in the management of the mineral, energy, land, and water resources of the United States. These programs play a vital role in furthering the Nation's welfare by providing information on the character, magnitude, location, and distribution of minerals and ores, the sources and supplies of water, and the natural Earth processes that must be understood to maintain environmental quality.

The USGS provides geographic and cartographic information, maps, and technical assistance and conducts related research responsive to national needs. Other contributions are staff support for the domestic geographic names activities of the BGN, management of the National Geographic Names Data Base and the Geographic Names Information System, and ongoing research in support of national mapping and name standardization programs.

NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC NAMES DATA BASE

This gazetteer is derived from the National Geographic Names Data Base, which is part of a computerized Geographic Names Information System developed by the USGS. The data base presently contains information for about two million names used throughout the United States, its territories, and outlying areas. Information within the system can be retrieved, manipulated, and arranged to meet the special needs of a wide variety of users in government, education, business, and industry, as well as those of private individuals. The system can furnish alphabetical and special listings in the form of bound reports, magnetic tapes, and microfiche. Information about available services and costs of the Geographic Names Information System may be obtained by writing to the Chief, Branch of Geographic Names, U.S. Geological Survey, 523 National Center, Reston, VA 22092.

THE NATURE OF OUR GEOGRAPHIC NAMES

Geographic names, with very few exceptions, originate in and are influenced by spoken language, but much of our interest and concern about their use is based on the written form of the names. Matters of spelling, capitalization, word form, and writing marks are writing conditions that have little to do with the way the names sound in everyday language. Geographic names, within the context of language, represent a primary reference system used throughout the world. Their use illustrates a unique human ability to abstract and classify geographic entities in the spatial world thought of as reality and then to identify specific items in that classification with proper names for reference purposes. The primary function of geographic names in language is denotative; they are labels used to refer to particular places, features, and areas in the world around us. But geographic names can and do transcend this primary function. Because they are symbols that represent artificial abstractions of reality, geographic names play an important role in controlling the way people think about and personally relate to the outside world. Geographic names also have strong psychological significance. Geographic names identify areas of cultural and administrative affiliation and responsibilities; define political boundaries and areas of political interest; and carry legal weight in determining property, mineral, and water rights.

The geographic names of the United States are found in various forms. Most reflect English, French, and Spanish naming traditions. The majority of our geographic names are binomial; the two parts denote specific and generic elements: Middleton (middle town), Coal Hollow, or Sierra Nevada. The generic part tells the kind of place, feature, or area to which the name refers, and the specific part uniquely identifies the particular place, feature, or area. The generic part of the name is usually a single topographic term such as brook, hill, bay, peak, mesa, or lake; the specific part may consist of one or more words such as Grosse [Roche], Duck Nest [Springs], and Dread and Terror [Ridge]. In written usage, words in the specific part of the name are often combined such as Threemile Run and Redhill Gulch. The names of some features can be long, especially if the specific part is a prepositional phrase: Cliffs of the Seven Double Pillars, Foot of the Mountains Run, and Canon del Rajadero de los Negros.

Some names have unique generic forms, for example, Bald Alley (ridge), Butlers Toothpick (pinnacle rock), Titans Piazza (hill), and Devils Racepath (ridge). The definite form is also found in names. These usually are written with a capitalized article: The Bend, La Pica, The Cape, The Nose, and The Maze. Single-word specific names like Boston, Oalite, and Pinhook are common for populated places and some civil divisions; the kind of feature meant is implied by sentence context or embedded generic term. Several names that have the same generic word often are treated as a group in text with the generic word in plural form: Calumet, Manitowoc, and Sheboygan Counties and Wisconsin and Illinois Rivers.

GEOGRAPHIC NAMES AND MAPS

A map, even in its simplest form, is a remarkable kind of communication system involving cognitive characteristics that differ from those found in written and spoken language. Maps (and charts) are iconographic. Like a picture, the symbols on a map are meant to be substitute portrayals of geographic reality in relative position. The symbols allow maps to convey meaning and spatial relationships that spoken or written language cannot convey well, if at all. This spatial map representation of a surface area, as seen from above, gives mapmakers the ability to communicate geographic information about the surface of the Earth.

The picture characteristics of a map, however, are only part of the communication process. Standard map symbols alone are not adequate to convey the information intended by the mapmaker. The map user must have some idea of the identity of the geographic entities represented by the point, line, and area symbols (and photographic images) to relate them to reality. The gap between the picture symbols on a map and an understanding of geographic reality is bridged by the use of geographic names. Without the use of these names, a map is a mere diagram of unknown spatial relationships. The language-related characteristics of geographic names in their written form provide the essential link that gives the mapmaker and map user the ability to understand what the map symbols represent. The map symbols, combined with the attributes of names, give a map its special cognitive characteristics.

Although the symbol and name combination on a map is able to convey special meaning and significance, communication can also be limited by that relationship. Perhaps the most perplexing decisions made by mapmakers involve placenames. The questions simply put are, "What is being named, and how can that name be put on a map to transmit the same meaning it has in spoken language?" The answer is that transferring names that have specific meanings from one communication system to another system that has different cognitive characteristics is difficult and not always possible. On a map, a name stands alone with its point, line, or area symbol outside the context of sentence structure. The name and graphic symbol as a unit may not always be able to convey the same distinctions of meaning as the name used in spoken language. Human logic and vision allow individuals to define the landscape in various combinations that cannot always be represented by standard map symbols. In some cases the use of distinctive generics in map names may help define these meanings. A knob, top, bald, mountain, lead, and butte, for example, may look like the same kind of feature according to the map symbols, but each feature has a distinctive difference recognized by on-the-ground users. The ability of a placename to communicate feature distinctions on a map depends not only on the generic part used in the name, but also on the meaning of the generic part as understood by both the mapmaker and the map user.

THE GEOGRAPHIC NAME HERITAGE OF THE UNITED STATES

Some of the oldest geographic names found on U.S. maps today are derived from Native American languages. However, we are familiar only with those Native American names recorded after the arrival of Europeans. Most of these names were vagariously recorded in various European languages by persons unfamiliar with the indigenous languages, and most were applied in ways best suited to European naming habits. Nevertheless, geographic names derived from the American Indian, Inuit (Eskimo), Aleut, or Hawaiian languages account for the names of 28 States; many major cities, most of the larger lakes, and longer rivers; a few mountains; and thousands of smaller places and natural features. Names like Chesapeake, Saginaw, Tennessee, Potomac, Shenandoah, Ohio, Kobuk, Taycheedah, Honolulu, Tehachapi, Yukon, and Multnomah are an integral part of everyday language and our American heritage.

The oldest name of European origin still in use in the United States is Florida. In April 1513, Juan Ponce de Leon gave this name to what is now the east coast of the State of Florida because the land was discovered during the time of the Feast of Flowers (Pascua Florida) and because the vegetation along the shore was abundant. After the voyage of Ponce de Leon, the maritime powers of Europe explored and settled the new territory and gave names to the features of the land. Although Native American names occasionally were preserved, the Europeans generally followed the familiar naming practices of their homelands. A substantial number of Spanish names, bestowed by conquistadors, explorers, missionaries, and settlers, are found in Florida, the Southwest, and along the Pacific Coast. Familiar names from these areas are Rio Grande, Palo Alto, Canaveral, Sierra Nevada, San Blas, Sangre de Cristo, Ojo Caliente, and Colorado. Most of the names in Puerto Rico also are derived from Spanish. Geographic names derived from French, such as Detroit, Au Sable, Prairie du Chien, Terre Haute, Baton Rouge, Nez Pique, and Saint Louis, can be found in areas of French exploration, fur trapping, and settlement from the Great Lakes, down the Mississippi River, and up the Missouri River to the Rocky Mountains. Geographic names derived from Dutch are found along the Hudson River; names derived from German, in Pennsylvania and the upper Midwest; names derived from Danish, in the Virgin Islands; and names derived from Russian, in Alaska.

Most geographic names found throughout the United States are derived from English. Early English explorers and settlers attempted to transfer a part of the British Isles to the east coast of the New World by using names like Yorktown, Northumberland, New London, Windsor, and Cape Ann. The English language followed the expanding frontier and became the principal language of the new Nation, hence its predominance in American placenames. English, however, is an adoptive language. Large numbers of names derived from other languages were also assimilated and are now part of everyday speech. Some names were translated and some names were modified by a process called folk etymology; for example, L'eau Froide, Chemin Couvert, and Gens de Lange became Low Freight, Smackover, and Chandalar respectively.

The three million or more geographic names applied to places, features, and areas in the United States represent the language in which our country's history is written. These names are part of the living heritage of all Americans. Their origins and meanings, derived from many languages, show national, personal, and social ingredients of life, past and present. Over 500 years of history are found in names like Snohomish, Wizard Clip, Chesapeake Bay, Milksick Creek, Cowcumber Hill, Bayou Boeuf, Stingray Point, Lake Winnebago, Kodiak, The Maiden, Mauna Loa, Scarce of Fat Ridge, Bull Run, Devils Hopyard, Shiloh, Caintuck Hollow, Kobuk River, and Independence. Americans have named a place for a Swedish soprano (Jenny Lind), a French crusader (Saint Louis), a Roman soldier (Cincinnatus), a pirate (Lafitte), and a Russian tsar (Alexander).

GUIDE TO THE USE OF THE GAZETTEER

This gazetteer is a listing of the more frequently used major feature, place, and area names in the United States and its territories. This gazetteer does not list minor feature names and certain categories of names, such as those for streets, roads, and radio and television stations. All of the names listed can be located on current intermediate-scale maps and charts. The names are listed in alphabetical order, and each is followed by five categories of information. Each of these categories is in a separate column on the gazetteer pages; the columns contain the following information, in order from left to right:

Feature Name (first column)—The proper name of a feature, place, or area is listed in alphabetical order, letter-by-letter, from beginning to end, ignoring spaces and printing marks. Exceptions to this rule occur in those cases in which the generic part of the name of a physical feature precedes the specific part, as in Mount Adams, Lake Ann, Bay Saint Louis, and Lake of the Woods. In each case the specific part is listed first, followed by a comma and the rest of the name:

Adams, Mount
Ann, Lake
Saint Louis, Bay Woods, Lake of the Definite-form names are also listed with the specific parts of the name first:

Crossing, The Mesa, La Racetrack, The

A populated place, locality, or civil division (city, village, or county) named for a physical feature is always listed in normal order even though the generic parts of the name may precede the specific parts. A village or locality called "Mount Calvary" is listed in that order, while a physical feature that has the same name is listed in reverse order, "Calvary, Mount."

A few names listed in the gazetteer are followed by descriptive words in parentheses. These words or phrases give special information about name usage or about the specific place or feature. This information is usually self-explanatory, for example: county seat.

Feature Class (second column)—The terms listed in this category identify the kinds of features or places to which the names apply. The meaning of the terms is very broad so that similar kinds of landscape features can be grouped into general classes. For example, the term "stream" includes all kinds of flowing water that locally may be called a creek, run, river, branch, bayou, or fork. See pages XXXI–XXXII for a list of these terms and their definitions.

County (third column)—This column lists the name of the county in which the entity is located. If the place, feature, or area lies in more than one county, the county listed is the one in which the center of the feature is found or, in the case of a stream, valley, or arroyo, the county listed is the one in which the mouth of the feature is located. Outline maps of the States, showing their counties, are on pages XV–XXIII.

State (fourth column)—This column lists the name of the State in which the county and named geographic entity are located. If the place, feature, or area is in more than one State, the State listed is the one in which the center of the feature is found or, in the case of a stream, valley, or arroyo, the State listed is the one in which the mouth of the feature is located.

Coordinates (fifth column)—Latitudes and longitudes are given for the mouths of streams and valleys; centers of bays, islands, lakes, populated places, and other areal features; the extremities of points of land; the summits of mountains and hills; and the dams of reservoirs. The first two numbers are degrees, the next two numbers, minutes, and the last two, seconds N (north) or S (south) latitude. This sequence is followed by three, two, and two numbers, respectively representing degrees, minutes, and seconds W (west) or E (east) longitude. Example: 384835N0994413W reads 38 degrees, 48 minutes, 35 seconds north latitude and 099 degrees, 44 minutes, 13 seconds west longitude.

Elevation (sixth column)—The specific or average elevation is given in feet above the National Geodetic Vertical Datum of 1929 (approximately sea level) for tops of peaks, mountains, ridges, and hills; the surfaces of lakes and reservoirs; the high points of passes and low points of basins; and the approximate centers of populated places.

GEOGRAPHIC TABLES

Geographic data that are frequently requested from the USGS are presented in tables 1–12 on pages XXV–XXX. The elevations of features and distances between points in the United States were determined from surveys and topographic maps of the USGS or were obtained from other sources. Some of this information, compiled from older maps, will be revised as new surveys are completed.

GLOSSARY

By Roger L. Payne

The following is a glossary of common language terms used to categorize each place, feature, or area identified by a geographic name. The terms assigned to each entry form the second column, Feature Class, on the gazetteer page. The terms and their definitions should be considered only as a general guide and not as a dictionary of balanced, exclusive, or precise terminology for the identification of cultural and natural features. Commonly used generic terms are listed at the end of each definition to assist in understanding the range of meaning represented by the feature class. A geographic name in plural form is identified by a term in singular form; "Relic Islands" is identified as "island." The term "populated place" is abbreviated "ppl."

airport: a manmade facility maintained for the use of aircraft (airfield, airstrip, landing field, landing strip).
arch: a natural archlike opening in a rock mass (bridge, natural bridge, sea arch).
area: any one of several areally extensive natural features not included in other categories (badlands, barren, delta, fan, garden).
arroyo: a watercourse or channel through which water may occasionally flow (coulee, draw, gulley, wash).
bar: a natural accumulation of sand, gravel, or alluvium or a ledge of rock or coral forming an underwater or exposed embankment (ledge, reef, sandbar, shoal, spit).
basin: a natural depression or relatively low area enclosed by higher land (amphitheater, cirque, pit, sink).
bay: an indentation of a coast or shoreline enclosing a part of a body of water; a body of water partly surrounded by land (arm, bight, cove, estuary, gulf, inlet, sound).
beach: the sloping shore along a body of water that is periodically washed by waves or tides and is usually covered by sand or gravel (coast, shore, strand).
bench: an area of relatively level land on the side of an elevation, such as a hill, ridge, or mountain, where the slope of the land rises on one side and descends on the opposite side (level).
bend: a curve in the course of a stream and (or) the land within the curve; a curve in a linear body of water (loop, meander).
bridge: a manmade structure carrying a trail, road, or other transportation system across a body of water or depression (causeway, overpass, trestle).
building: a manmade structure having walls and a roof for protection of people and (or) materials; churches, hospitals, and schools are special types of buildings and are assigned individual categories.

canal: a manmade waterway used by watercraft or for drainage, irrigation, mining, or water power (ditch, lateral).
cape: a projection of land extending into a body of water (lae, neck, peninsula, point).
cave: a natural underground passageway or chamber or a hollowed out cavity in the side of a cliff (cavern, grotto).
cemetery: a place or area for burying the dead (burial, burying ground, grave, memorial garden).
channel: a linear deep part of a body of water through which the main volume of water flows and that is frequently used as a route for watercraft (passage, reach, strait, thoroughfare, throughfare).
church: a building used for religious worship (chapel, mosque, synagogue, tabernacle, temple).
civil: designates a political division formed for administrative purposes (borough, county, town, township).
cliff: a very steep or vertical slope (bluff, crag, head, headland, nose, overhang, pali, palisade, precipice, promontory, rim, rimrock).
crater: a circular depression at the summit of a volcanic cone or one on the surface of the land caused by either volcanism, meteoritic impact, or underground subsidence; a manmade depression caused by an explosion (caldera, lua).
crossing: a place where two or more routes of transportation form a junction or intersection (overpass, underpass).
dam: a water barrier or embankment built across the course of a stream or into or within a body of water to control and (or) impound the flow of water (breakwater, dike, jetty).
falls: a perpendicular or very steep descent of water in the course of a stream (cascade, cataract, waterfall).
flat: a relatively level area within a region of greater relief (clearing, glade, playa).
forest: a bounded area of woods, forest, or grassland under the administration of a political agency (national forest, national grasslands, State forest); see "woods."
gap: a low point or opening between hills or mountains or in a ridge or mountain range (col, notch, pass, saddle, water gap, wind gap).
geyser: an eruptive spring from which hot water, steam, and (or) mud are periodically thrown.
glacier: a body or stream of ice moving outward and downslope from an area of accumulation; an area of

- relatively permanent snow or ice on the top or side of a mountain (ice field, ice patch, snow patch).
- gut: a relatively small coastal waterway connecting larger bodies of water or other waterways (creek, inlet, slough).
- harbor: a sheltered area of water where ships or other watercraft can anchor or dock (hono, port, road, roadstead).
- hospital: a building where the sick or injured may receive medical or surgical attention (infirmary).
- island: an area of dry or relatively dry land surrounded by water or low wetland (archipelago, atoll, cay, hammock, hummock, isla, isle, key, moku, rock).
- isthmus: a narrow projection of land in a body of water connecting two larger land areas.
- lake: a natural body of inland water (backwater, lac, lagoon, laguna, pond, pool, resaca, waterhole).
- lava: a formation or feature resulting from the consolidation of molten rock on the surface of the Earth (kipuka, lava flow).
- levee: a natural or manmade embankment flanking a stream (bank, berm).
- locale: a place at which there is or was relatively minor human occupation or activity; does not include populated places (ppl), mines, and dams (battlefield, camp, farm, railroad siding, ranch, ruins, site, station, windmill).
- mine: a place or area from which commercial minerals are located or were removed from the Earth; does not include oilfield (pit, quarry, shaft).
- oilfield: an area where petroleum is located or was removed from the Earth.
- park: a place or area set aside for recreation or preservation of a cultural or natural resource and under some form of governmental administration; does not include a forest (national historical landmark, national park, State park, wilderness).
- pillar: a vertical-standing, often spire-shaped, natural rock formation (chimney, monument, pinnacle, pohaku, rock tower).
- plain: a region of generally uniform slope, comparatively level, and of considerable extent (grassland, highland, kula, plateau, upland).
- ppl: populated place: a place or area having clustered or scattered buildings and a permanent human population (city, settlement, town, village).
- range: a chain of hills or mountains; a somewhat linear mountainous or hilly area (cordillera, sierra).
- rapids: a fast-flowing section of a stream, often shallower than other sections, and having exposed rocks or boulders (riffle, ripple).
- reserve: a tract of land set aside for a specific use; does not include forests, civil divisions, or parks.
- reservoir: an artificially impounded body of water (lake, tank).
- ridge: an elevation having a narrow, linear crest; may be part of a hill or mountain (crest, cuesta, escarpment, hogback, lae, rim, spur).
- school: a building or group of buildings used as an institution for study, teaching, and learning (academy, college, high school, university).
- sea: a large body of salt water (gulf, ocean).
- slope: a gently inclined part of the Earth's surface (grade, pitch).
- spring: a place where underground water flows naturally to the surface of the Earth (seep).
- stream: a linear body of water flowing on the Earth's surface (anabranch, awawa, bayou, branch, brook, creek, distributary, fork, kill, pup, rio, river, run, slough).
- summit: a prominent elevation rising above the surrounding level of the Earth's surface; does not include ridges and ranges (ahu, bald, berg, butte, cerro, colina, cone, cumbre, dome, head, hill, horn, knob, knoll, mauna, mesa, meseta, mesita, mound, mount, mountain, peak, puu, rock, sugarloaf, table, volcano).
- swamp: poorly drained wetland, fresh or salt, wooded or grassy; possibly covered with open water (bog, cienaga, marais, marsh, pocosin).
- tower: a manmade structure, higher than its diameter, generally used for observation, storage, or electronic transmission.
- trail: a route for passage from one point to another; does not include roads or highways, categories of entities presently not included in this gazetteer (jeep trail, path, ski trail).
- tunnel: a linear underground passageway open at both ends.
- valley: a linear depression in the Earth's surface that slopes from one end to the other (barranca, canyon, chasm, cove, draw, glen, gorge, gulch, gulf, hollow, ravine).
- well: a manmade shaft or hole in the Earth's surface used to obtain fluid or gaseous materials.
- woods: a small area covered with a dense growth of trees; does not include an area of trees under the administration of a political agency; see "forest."
