

Photo 26. High snow-covered peaks of San Luis caldera complex, viewed to southwest from a central location within Cochetopa Park caldera (just south of Cochetopa Dome). Low sagebrush-covered slopes in foreground are gravel-mantled ashy sedimentary fill of caldera moat. Nelson Mountain Tuff, erupted from vents in the San Luis complex, flowed to northeast, into Cochetopa Park, area and forms mesa-capping tongue on right skyline.
